"Frank supported his family by house painting. He enjoyed fishing. He was a very short man and never learned to drive or owned a car. He poured coffee into a saucer to drink it and ate peas with a knife!

Frank never went beyond 3rd grade but learned to read the whole Bible. It was the only book he owned.

Interestingly enough, Frank was named Sel at birth but just took the name Frank Wilber after his oldest son was born so he could be Frank Wilbur Martin, SR. Pauline writes, for years people just did what they wanted to do. Frank had a hard life and his father died when he was about 9. There were many younger siblings so he tried to farm for his mother!! They did loose the farm because the mortgage couldn't be paid and they never had any possessions. It was hard for them to just live day to day."
